San Francisco Unified School District collaborated with United States Department of Agriculture to launch the “Pick Me” poster design contest, to promote the message of healthy eating. The work of ten students stood out among 400 and more entries. Five-year-old Lian- Feng Lei is the champion of the kindergarten group. Lei’s mother states that she feels honored, and Lei’s whole family took time off from work to attend the Award Ceremony. According to Lei, she is thrilled to be a winner, while her favorite fruit, strawberry, was featured in the center of her winning work. Eight-year-old Rui Xiao is the champion of the second grade group. Their winning artwork was posted for display on eight hundred MUNI buses to publicize the theme of “Eat Healthy. Be Active”.
